LETTING GO OF THE PAIN

Dr. David Speicher

Dr. David Speicher, a Canadian virologist, like many of our doctors and scientists standing for the truth, has faced a barrage of persecution over the pandemic for standing firm on the scientific and moral truth. While many people may not know Dr. Speicher's name or struggles, this is a story of courage, resilience, and tenacity that started before the pandemic.

Due to a severe stutter since childhood, Dr. Speicher was often bullied and sidelined as many think that stutterers are less intelligent, limited, and insecure. He was even told by a high school guidance councillor to not attempt university as "he would never make it." However, Dr. Speicher obtained a MSc in Coronavirus diagnostics and a PhD in Virology and has studied infectious diseases in Australia, India, Kenya and Canada. In early 2020, Dr. Speicher, a postdoctoral research fellow at McMaster University, worked with the team the first cultured and sequenced SARS-CoV-2 until he was suddenly sidelined for his critical views of the Canadian government's response to the pandemic.

As Dr. Speicher is a PCR expert, he then became the Laboratory Director of two COVID PCR facilities performing up to 15,000 tests/week on asymptomatic people. Dr. Speicher firmly believes that PCR is an elegant, super sensitive assay to detect SARS-CoV-2 RNA provided the assays are properly validated and coupled with clinical assessment. However, PCR should only be used on symptomatic people to determine which virus is causing infection, and not en masse on asymptomatic people to cause a pandemic to drive fear of the virus.

In late January 2022, Dr. Speicher was fired as Laboratory Director for taking his 8-year-old son, while on his day off, to watch the convoy pass through Hamilton. As a scientist with the Canadian COVID Care Alliance, Dr. Speicher, was tirelessly working on COVID, and it was The Convoy that provided a glimmer of hope to our efforts. This hope prompted Dr. Speicher to first tell his story on the boom truck stage February 12, 2022, in Ottawa, and several events since. Dr. Speicher elegantly presented on the science of PCR testing as an expert witness at the National Citizen's inquiry and The Great Canadian Awakening.

Over the past year, despite his stutter, Dr. Speicher worked as a Sessional Assistant Professor at Redeemer University where he has empowered and inspired undergraduate students in the study of microbiology, genetics, and advanced laboratory methods. In this role, Dr. Speicher has taught the truth of SARS-CoV-2/COVID pathogenesis, diagnostics, and vaccines. While Redeemer University did not renew Dr. Speicher's contact and he is currently seeking employment, it is the encouraging words of his students that provide hope to keep going. In a letter, one of his students said, "Dr. Speicher has shown his commitment to the betterment of science through his devotion to our learning and understanding of historical, theological, ethical, societal, and vocational dimensions of science. He has made a lasting impact on this facility and on the lives of his students."

No matter what challenges we face, we all have a story that needs to be told. Every one of us needs to stand and tell our stories. We also need to stand up for those being bullied in our communities. This includes standing up for our children and supporting those who are struggling to find work. Most importantly, we need to understand that God feels the pain of the injustices in our world and learn to forgive those who have harmed us. Forgiveness doesn't mean letting other get away with the horrendous things they have done, but to let go of the pain knowing that God will avenge them, and we do not need to carry the pain. We must forgive and unite so that our society can heal.

Get rid of all bitterness, rage, and anger, brawling and slander, along with every form of malice. Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you -Ephesians 4:31-32

CHINESE ELECTION INTERFERENCE

“All Canadians have a role to play in protecting Canada against foreign interference.” @csiscanada stated in a tweet on March 09 2023.

What are the claims made by the CSIS leaks?

1. China provided secret funding through its Toronto Consulate to 11 candidates who ran in the 2019 federal election.

Global news was informed that in January of 2022 Canadian Intelligence delivered a series of sensitive briefings regarding China running sophisticated operations including the placement of Chinese agents into the offices of sitting MPs as well as funding a network of candidates who ran in the 2019 election. These candidates (at least 11) ran in both Liberal and Conservative parties and with ties to the Chinese Communist Party. Funding for which was allegedly funnelled through an unnamed member of the Ontario provincial legislature and an election staffer. CSIS told Global News “The Chinese Communist Party is using all elements of state power to carry out activities that are a direct threat to our national security and sovereignty.”

2. Liberals were warned in 2019 there was a risk that one of their candidates, who is now an MP, may have been compromised by China.

Trudeau, despite warnings from CSIS about Liberal MP Han Dong's alleged involvement in the Chinese foreign interference network, approved his candidacy. Intelligence sources told Global News that Han Dong was being supported by Beijing and the Chinese consulate in Toronto. CSIS alleged that the consulate sent two bus loads of Chinese Canadian seniors with Han Dong written on their arm to the Don Valley North liberal nomination meeting and suspected Chinese international students were threatened with the loss of their student visa status if they did not support Han Dong.

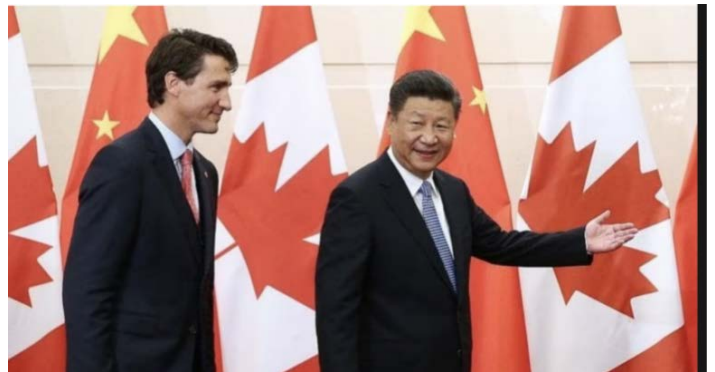

3. Michael Chong, conservative MP, was targeted by China.

After Michael Chong sponsored a parliamentary motion regarding China's mistreatment and abuse of the Uyghur Muslims in China he was informed by David Vigneault, head of CSIS, that a Chinese diplomat in the Toronto Consulate - Zhao Wei- had targeted his family.

“The government did nothing about a person in Canada that was targeting me and my family and targeting other members of parliament...the government continued to accredit this individual as a diplomat, giving special rights and immunities not afforded to Canadians, allowing this individual to continue their coercion and intimidation campaign here in Canada.” Michael Chong.

With growing calls from the public to hold a public inquiry into the Chinese interference Trudeau appointed an old family friend, former Governor General as a special rapporteur to investigate and decide the need for a public inquiry. Johnston's report found a public inquiry was not necessary, sparking outrage amongst the public as well as sitting MPs eventually causing him to resign as special rapporteur.

Currently, both Pierre Pollièvre and Jagmeet Singh have remained strong in their calls for public inquiry.

PRIVY COUNCIL EXPOSED

For years Canadians have been sounding the alarm about the potential dangers of the Covid 19 injections and concerns over lack of informed consent. The government, health officials and local doctors, nurses and pharmacists all repeated the narrative “safe and effective” while demonizing anyone who asked questions and expected to be provided evidence. Social media was censored anytime the injections were brought forth, doctors speaking out had their accounts banned and many were and still are being targeted by the government and medical establishment for daring to ask tough questions.

Slowly but surely we are seeing evidence brought to life about the dangers of these injections. The Florida Standard reports that according to top insurance analyst 600,000 Americans per year are dying from these injections. An all cause mortality rate study focused on Germany and Japan has drawn into question the Covid measures including the injections to be much more likely the cause of increased death among their populations, yet still the Canadian government continues to push the narrative of safe and effective.

Harrison Faulkner from True North recently reported on secret Privy Council memo recommending Covid injection related injuries and deaths be “managed” with “winning communication strategies” in an attempt to avoid shaking public confidence in the medical intervention. They also suggested skewing the statistics around injection related deaths in order to manipulate the public.

Privy Council Office memorandum

- There are many other factors that need to be investigated.
- The chance of a Canadian being injured in a car accident was higher than a vaccine injury.
- As tragic as they are, such health events occur every day whether or not people are vaccinated.

This memo suggests Prime Minister Trudeau and the PMO were aware of the risks associated with the COVID-19 vaccines as early as May 2021. In spite of this Justin Trudeau used the vaccine as an edge issue in the October 2021 election and imposed further mandates and restrictions on Canadians.

IT'S TIME TO TAKE OUR POWER BACK

Greg Rider

If you have been a user of Tik Tok during the last year you have likely come across many convoy videos using Freedom In This Country as their sound. Following the sound back to its original creator would put you on Greg Riders Tik Tok page - @gregriderofficial with 60k followers and almost 850k likes.

An Ontario born country musician, ISSA certified fitness coach, podcaster, motivational speaker and convoy supporter now living in Alberta Greg Rider has made his mark in the freedom movement known.

So how did this Ontario native end up in Alberta, writing a song about Freedom during one of the hardest times in Canadian history?

Pre-covid Greg had already accomplished a lot musically, he had spent a couple years in Nashville writing music and singing on Broadway, taking part in the Nashville music scene but the novelty had worn off and he realized he needed to be more authentic in his music.

When the lockdowns happened, this restricted Greg from being able to continue to make a living, with all shows being cancelled, no live music available anywhere, now living with his parents he felt he was a failure. In 2021 with the blessing of survivors, Greg released 16 sticks, a tribute to the Humbolt Broncos family and friends. Through the release of this song Greg was connected again with his passion, not only for music, but for making a difference in peoples lives.

Although Greg had touched the lives of so many with 16 Sticks, Canadians were still facing breaches of their charter rights, isolated and segregated under strict masking and vaccine mandates. Until January of 2022.

Greg has said that he has never been one to pick sides, he has always stayed in the middle, but the last few years had changed this for him. What he saw in Convoy, the hope, the love Canadians have for each other, it reminded him how important patriotism is, how important it is to come together and how, by using our individual strengths we can effect positive change worldwide. This was the spark that inspired "Freedom In This Country"
